Subject: Conflict Materials/Minerals Policy Statement

To Whom this May Concern,

Conflict Minerals refer to raw materials or minerals that come from a particular part of the world where conflict is occurring and affects the mining and trading of those materials. In 2012, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) issued rules implementing the “conflict minerals” disclosure requirements of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Dodd-Frank). Under these rules, organizations that use conflict minerals are required to report annually to the SEC on any use of conflict minerals, including tin, tantalum, tungsten, or gold, originating in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) or any of the DRC’s adjoining countries, or from scrap, or recycled sources in products manufactured by the Company.

Although R&R Lotion does not meet the requirements to report on our suppliers, many of our customers and distributor partners do. As of this time R&R Lotion produces IC Tip Tinner which contains Tin that is on the list for reporting. We will support our distributors and customers efforts in conducting a Reasonable Country of Origin Inquiry (RCOI) and documenting countries of origin for the tin, tantalum, tungsten, and gold that are purchased in order to verify they are not sourced from conflict zones.

The product composition information is to the best of our knowledge and may be based on third party supplier information and/or our knowledge and experience regarding typical substance composition found in materials used in our formulations.

We will continue to monitor our ingredients and our suppliers and communicate this information to our customers and to the best of our ability supply conflict free minerals.

Best Regards,
